

Programme

Morning Session	09.00 - 09.30	Registration
	09.30 - 10.30	Anne Baring
	10.30 - 11.00	Refreshments
	11.00 - 12.15	Anita Moorjani
	12.15 - 1.30	Lunch
Afternoon Session	1.30 - 2.30	Andrew Powell
	2.30 - 3.45	Deborah Fish
	3.45 - 4.15	Refreshments
	4.15 - 5.00	Discussion with speakers

- REGISTRATION FORM -

Name.....

Address.....

.....Tel.....

Email.....

Please reserve me a place on 18th February 2012. I enclose a cheque (payable to Woolger Training International) for £75.

Confirmation of booking/travel details and map will be sent by email if provided, otherwise please enclose SAE. We are sorry we cannot take credit card bookings and that once received, your payment is non-refundable.

This conference is presented by Anne Baring and Dr Andrew Powell in association with The Woolger Institute for Psyche and Spiritual Awareness, founded by Dr Roger Woolger and offering a programme of conferences and seminars relating to different esoteric traditions.

www.deepmemoryprocess.com

Bookings/further information:

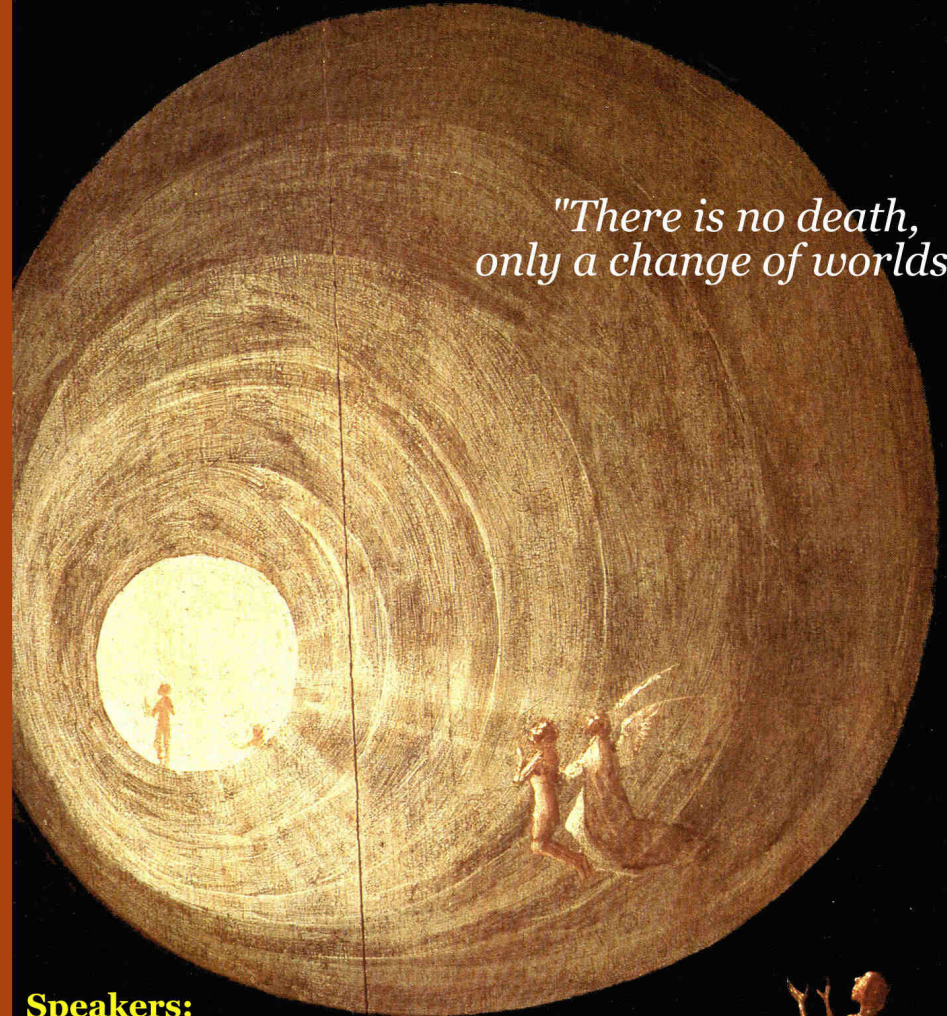

'Briarwood', Long Wittenham, Oxon OX14 4QW

Tel/Fax: 01865 407996 Email: woolger.uk@talk21.com

SEEING THROUGH THE VEIL

Anne Baring & Andrew Powell invite you to a conference
exploring the survival of the soul and life beyond death

*"There is no death,
only a change of worlds"*

Speakers:

Anita Moorjani, Anne Baring,
Deborah Fish & Dr Andrew Powell

Saturday 18 February 2012 9am - 5pm
Rembrandt Hotel, London SW7 2RS

'SEEING THROUGH THE VEIL'

Anne Baring is a Jungian analyst - author and co-author of several books including 'The Dream of the Cosmos: who are we and why are we here?' (2012). Her work is devoted to the recognition that we live in an ensouled world and to the restoration of the lost sense of communion between us and the invisible dimension of the universe that she feels is the source of all that we call 'life'. www.annebaring.com

Anne will discuss how current beliefs about death and the censorship of material on non-ordinary experiences constrict the human spirit and limit the horizon of our sight. She will explore the approach to death of earlier cultures and also the idea of the 'subtle' or 'light' body that offers us a very different understanding of the survival of the soul. Could it be that the apparent finality of death is the greatest of our illusions? Relinquishing old beliefs can alleviate the trauma of bereavement and give us trust and hope in our survival.

Anita Moorjani is an inter-cultural communication trainer by profession, and lives in Hong Kong. In 2002, she was diagnosed with cancer, which slowly spread throughout her whole body, via her lymphatic system. By early 2006, she had tumours the size of lemons, from the base of her skull all the way down to her abdomen. On February 2nd 2006, her organs finally began to shut down and she went into a coma. The doctors at the hospital informed her distressed family that she was in her final hours of life, and was not going to make it through the night. www.anitamoorjani.com

Anita will speak about her remarkable near death experience, which took place during what was supposed to be her final hours of life. She felt as though she entered another dimension and was faced with a choice of whether to return to life or not. Although seemingly in a coma to all who were observing, she experienced heightened awareness of everything that was taking place around her, as well as great clarity and understanding of her life and purpose here on earth. Anita subsequently chose to return to life when she understood that 'heaven' is a state, and not a place. This subsequently led to a remarkable and complete recovery of her health.

Andrew Powell has worked as a psychiatrist and psychotherapist in academic and NHS consultant posts in London and Oxford. His interest in spirituality in healthcare led to establishing the Spirituality and Psychiatry Special Interest Group in the Royal College of Psychiatrists, which now has over 2500 psychiatrist members. Andrew is co-editor of 'Spirituality and Psychiatry' (2009). His papers on spirituality are available from the publications archive at www.rcpsych.ac.uk/spirit Andrew writes: Mental health sciences that are based solely on material realism deny the validity of other-dimensional reality. This view is being challenged by those who hold that consciousness is primary and that we humans are witness to a larger design, one that takes us beyond the realm of ordinary sense-perception. In this talk, Andrew will be speaking about how psychiatry that affirms spiritual reality can help those who find themselves, sometimes to their consternation, 'seeing through the veil'.

Deborah Mary Fish has a varied background as a psychotherapist both in Canada and the UK, including work in an NHS mental health trust and university counselling services. In her private practice she uses psycho-spiritual approaches to healing, such as the Induced After Death Communication (IADC) and past life therapy (with hypnosis). www.deborahfish.com

Deborah will be discussing Eye Movement Desensitisation and Reprocessing (EMDR), a scientifically validated, integrative psychotherapy for working with loss, grief and trauma. Whilst using EMDR for Post Traumatic Stress Disorders at a Veterans Hospital in Chicago, Dr Allan Botkin found that with a modified version of EMDR, many patients reported an IADC. Contrary to bereavement approaches that focus on 'letting go' of the loved one, this reconnection profoundly facilitates healing. Deborah is currently the only therapist trained by Dr Botkin in the UK. She will be presenting her work with EMDR-related IADCs.